DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-14 are pending and have been examined.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

- Claims 1-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Pond et al. (U.S. 20040030601) ("Pond"), in view of Dunkeld et al. (U.S. 20030110126) ("Dunkeld").
- 4. For examination purposes the PTO interprets the word "operable to" in an apparatus claim as functional language, as it defines what the host system does, rather than what it is. The PTO has evaluated and considered the functional language for what it fairly conveys to a person of ordinary skill in the art. However, for an apparatus claim, patentable weight is given to the actual structure. Applicant can restructure the claim language to include for example: server apparatus with computer-readable storage medium with executable program stored thereon, wherein the program instructs a microprocessor to...

5. As per claims 1-14, Pond discloses an invention that comprises of the following:

- a) Content server, par. 122 and fig. 13, item 1340;
- b) Information terminal/mobile station, Fig. 13, item 1330 and par. 122;
- c) ("purchasing the usage information from an external server apparatus") –purchasing music content from a server, par. 122. Per par. 6 of applicant's published specification, purchasing usage information is equivalent to purchasing content to use:
- d) ("outputting the purchased usage information to a usage apparatus that is to use the content") – purchasing the content with a mobile station or phone, Fig. 13, item 1330 and par. 122. Downloading or outputting content to mobile phone, par. 122;
- e) ("transmitting settlement request information to a settlement apparatus") mobile station transmitting digital cash request to server, par. 103-104;
- f) Pond did explicitly teach content usage.
- g) Dunkeld teaches the aspect rights or terms of use for digital content, par. 57, 163
- h) Therefore, it would have been obvious for a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time of applicant's invention to construct a content distribution system with content rights or terms of use.
- The motivation for doing so would be to provide users with a framework for using the content in a legal manner.

6. Examiner has pointed out particular references contained in the prior arts of record in the body of this action for the convenience of the applicant. Although the specified citations are representative of the teachings in the art and are applied to the specific limitations within the individual claim, other passages and figures may apply as well. It is respectfully requested that if the applicant is preparing to respond, to consider fully the entire references as potentially teaching all or part of the claimed invention, as well as the context of the passage as taught by the prior arts or disclosed by the examiner.

7. In determining patentability of an invention over the prior art, the USPTO has considered all claimed limitations, and interpreted as broadly as their terms reasonably allow.

Additionally, all words in the claims have been considered in judging the patentability of the claims against the prior art.

8. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the
